

OVERVIEW

Surendranath Evening College, a distinguished institution with a venerable history, has been a cornerstone of higher education since its establishment in 1961. Dedicated to providing quality education to working students and those with daytime commitments, the college has consistently upheld its mission of fostering academic excellence and personal growth.

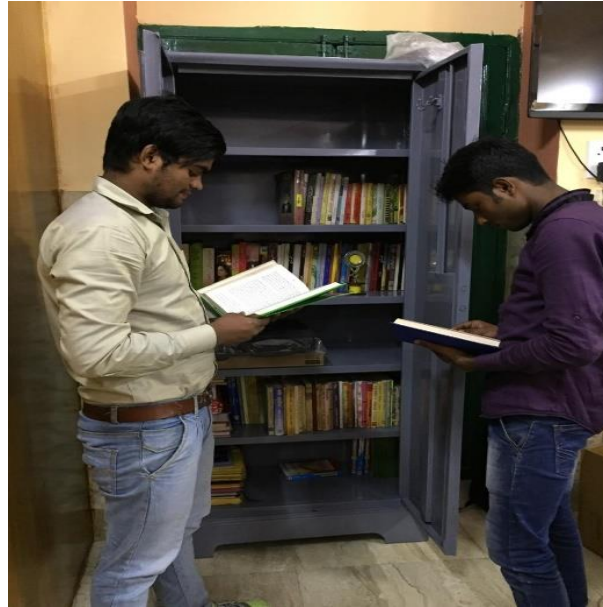

The Department of Urdu at Surendranath Evening College has been an integral part of this mission. Urdu has been taught at both the undergraduate and intermediate levels since the college's inception. In 2002, the department expanded its offerings by introducing Elective Urdu at the undergraduate level, and in 2005, the Honours course in Urdu was introduced, reflecting the growing interest and demand for advanced studies in this rich and culturally significant language.

The faculty of the Department of Urdu consists of one full-time teacher and three SST teachers, each with thriving research careers and PhD degrees. Their active engagement in research not only enriches the academic environment but also inspires students to pursue higher studies and develop a profound interest in scholarly activities from the outset of their academic journey. As a result, many students continue their education beyond the undergraduate level.

These esteemed faculty members are an asset to the department, possessing impressive academic credentials and a steadfast dedication to its enhancement. They regularly participate in seminars and discussions, ensuring that the department remains contemporary and dynamic. The head of the department plays a pivotal role in convening meetings and fostering collaboration among faculty members, addressing the diverse academic needs of the students.

The department boasts a well-stocked seminar library, which is frequently utilized by students to augment their studies. In 2003, the University of Calcutta granted affiliation for the general course, and in 2005, the honours course received affiliation. The department currently operates both the three-year and four-year CBS patterns, as well as the newly introduced four-year NP pattern, all of which are successfully implemented.

Strengths

1. Blending Youth and Experience: The department benefits from the synergy of experienced and energetic young educators, creating a balanced and vibrant academic environment. The faculty's participation in national and international seminars enhances their expertise and reputation.
2. Modern and Updated Approach: Despite its historical roots, the department maintains a modern and updated approach, ensuring high-quality faculty and student engagement, which keeps the department healthy and progressive.

Opportunities Provided by the Department
